Twelve or Fifteen more students wanted at once to prepare them for the many vacancies the schools are called upon to fill.

Individual Instruction given, and thus the weak points of each student are given special attention, and that is why so many efficient stenographers are turned out of the schools and such a demand for graduates of said schools.

MADE SOME MONEY

A dispatch from Harrisburg says: The Gettysburg and Harrisburg branch was a good revenue producer this year because of the fact of the National Guard encampment at Gettysburg. Most of the members of the National Guard were transported by the Reading, in addition to the excursions that were run during the encampment, carrying in the neighborhood of 5,000 people. Fully again that number took advantage of the Sunday excursions to the battlefield during the Summer.

DR. BIGGS HURT IN ACCIDENT

Local Veterinarian Victim of Driving Accident Caused by Horse Taking Fright at Automobile. Several Ribs Broken.

Dr. William M. Biggs, of South Washington street, sustained several fractured ribs this morning in an accident on the Emmitsburg road caused by his horse taking fright at an automobile.

Dr. Biggs was returning to town after answering a professional call at the farm of Mr. Fred. Riley. As he was approaching the trolley "Y" at the south end of town he noticed an automobile approaching and realizing that his horse would take fright held up his hand and called to the chauffeur not to come ahead. Dr. Biggs' intention being to turn around and drive into a field until the machine would pass.

The car came ahead, it is alleged, and the horse ran to the side of the road and up an embankment. Dr. Biggs saw that the buggy would overturn and jumped out. A minute later he was caught by the wheel which inflicted painful injuries to his side and threw him to the ground. The horse by this time had started to kick and damaged the buggy badly in addition to tearing the harness. Dr. Biggs let go the lines and the horse ran away leaving the buggy behind. The horse was not caught for several hours.

The automobile party, made up of tourists, stopped when they found the damage done and asked if they could be of any service but Dr. Biggs said they had done all that was necessary.

He was brought to town by Miss Currens, of Greenmount, who happened along at the time, and Dr. H. M. Hartman was summoned. He found painful injuries to the left side with indications of the fracturing of several ribs. The patient is resting easily though suffering considerably.

OWNER FOUND

The owner of the abandoned horse and runaway near Edge Grove has been found in the person of William Kemper, of near Dillsburg.

While the horse and runaway were fortunately found the mystery as to the identity of the thief still remains unsolved, also the reason for abandoning the team.

John Livelsperger, who had been caring for the horse, said that the animal was very tired when found, and this may have been the cause. Again, some one from the neighborhood of Edge Grove attending the Grangers' picnic, becoming short of funds, may have appropriated the team and abandoned it near his home.

BILLY, THE KID

The cast and productions are complete in every detail, and the play from the pens of Walter Woods and Joseph Santley has proved itself to be the most fascinating cowboy melodramas. During the past season "Billy the Kid" was seen in nearly every large city in the United States to phenomenal business and return engagements are everywhere on demand.

The Duty of a Wife.

The family was divided upon only one subject—the revised version of the Bible. The husband preferred the new version and his wife the old. As a rule however, family prayers were read from the old version. One day, says a writer in the New York Evening Post, the head of the house read the chapter which concludes with "and the wife see that she reverence her husband." After the exercise had closed and the children had gone to bed the husband quoted it, looking meaningly at his wife.

"Let us see what the revised version says on that subject," said she. "I will follow the new teaching, to please you."

The revised version was produced, and her chagrin may be imagined as the man impressively read. "And let the wife see that she fear her husband."

NO LICENSES IN HOT WEATHER

Clerk of the Courts Jacob Thomas Says that Marriage License Business Showed Big Falling off during Summer Months.

Clerk of the Courts Jacob F. Thomas has just handed in the following report.

"I have just finished my monthly report of the business done the last month and report the marriage license business for August almost gives me a 'pain under the apron'. If all months of the year were similar, I fear I would have to go to bed very often hungry. It seems the weather conditions of August are not favorable. That is the only reason I can give for the almost 'standstill' of the business.

"I am also glad to say that September has started in at a wonderfully fast gait. We have recorded quite a number of licenses already, and also quite a large number have given us the wink. They have not put the question direct, but have said this or something similar, 'Are you in the office in the evening?' 'Can you manage to keep it out or the daily?' 'You know everybody reads that paper'. Of course we know what it all means.

"But let them all come, we are here any hour of the day or night. Sunday excepted, but hold on, I guess we'll have to take that back. I notice the ministers marry them on Sunday, but I will say this, I prefer doing my end of the job on a week day."

FATAL STABBING IN DANCE HALL BRAWL

Man Who Accompanied Girl Home Attacked.

Allentown, Pa., Sept. 5. — The second fatal stabbing in the foreign section of this city within a month, and the direct result of the "dance hall evil," occurred when John Strauss, a young German, was slashed across the abdomen by a rival.

Strauss and Peter Bertlam had attended a dance in an east side resort, connected with a hotel, and accompanied two young women of the same nationality to their home. As the men arrived at their home, a few doors away, they were attacked, it is alleged, by George Fisher and Frank Hovar, who had followed them from the dance hall.

One of the men drew a knife as Bertlam ran into the house, and he slashed Strauss across the chest and abdomen, inflicting injuries from which he cannot recover. Bertlam returned with a revolver and drove the assailants off, but without injuring them.

Later Fisher and Hovar were arrested in their beds, and the bloody knife was found in their room.

NEW TARIFF LAW DEFENDED

Says Stagnation of Business Has Been Changed Into Unprecedented Activity and Workmen Employed at Highest Wages Ever Known.

Washington, Sept. 5.—Insurgent Republicans are not recognized in the Republican text book just issued by the Republican congressional committee.

There are copious extracts from the speeches of President Taft, Vice President Sherman, Representatives McKinley, of Illinois; Boutelle, of Ohio; Hill, of Tennessee; and Lousenslager, of Ohio. But there is a notable absence of any speeches such as those made by Doliver, Cummins, LaFollette and Brant. The campaign book opens with the full text of President Taft's letter to Chairman McKinley, of the congressional committee. There is a strong defense of the Payne-Aldrich tariff bill. The editor of the text book says on this point:

"The Republican leaders will insist that a law which has changed a deficit of $58,000,000 into a surplus of $15,000,000; that has changed stagnation of business to unprecedented activity; that has given full employment to our wage earners at the highest wages ever known, is a law to be unequivocally defended and a law that should remain unchanged until it is shown without doubt that a further revision would be of benefit to our labor and industries."

It is explained by some of the managers of the congressional committee that the issue of the text book was delayed while waiting for President Taft's keynote. Probably this accounts for the apparent divergence in tariff views between President Taft who, in his letter, advocates an early revision of the tariff by piecemeal, and the announcement of the campaign committee that they will insist that the tariff law have a fair test before any further revision is attempted.

The editor of the text book calls attention to the fact that 1905 marks the fiftieth anniversary of the convention which nominated Abraham Lincoln and that during most of that time the Republican party has been in power. "Of the twenty-five congresses of the last half century the Republican party has had a majority of the house of representatives in all except eight, and during the fifty years legislative and administrative life of the Republican party in only two years has the Democratic party had complete control of the government."

Then follows a recital of statistics to show the growth of the country during the fifty years, and the committee takes credit to the Republicans for nearly everything that has happened, mentioning incidentally that "during this half century of Republicanism our population has increased three-fold."

The committee expresses some concern for the "first voter," of whom there are estimated to be at least a million this year. A very formidable record of constructive legislation by the Republicans during the Sixty-first congress is made. Much of the campaign book is given up to setting out the important legislation that was passed.

One chapter of the text book is devoted to "our colored persons." Much space is given up to a demonstration of what the Republican party has done for the advancement of the negroes. Under the heading "Afro-Americans in government service," there is an imposing showing of the number of places held by negroes. "More than 14,000 in the government employ under salaries aggregating more than $8,000,000," says the text book.

CURED OF LEPROSY

Italian Woman at Baltimore Quarantine Station Nearly Well.

Baltimore, Sept. 5.—Mrs. Providencia Mascari, an Italian of this city, who was removed to quarantine last May suffering from leprosy, has improved to such an extent, according to a report by Dr. Thomas L. Richardson, quarantine physician, that she may be completely cured by Christmas.

Dr. Richardson said that evidences of her affliction are rapidly disappearing and that only a few spots still remain.

When Mrs. Mascari was taken to quarantine it was thought she could live only a short time. Dr. Richardson has been experimenting on the woman with certain medicines for the treatment of skin diseases, but he does not claim that the improvement in her condition is being brought about by this treatment.

HEAVYWEIGHTS FIGHT TONIGHT

Johnson is Next if Kaufman
Defeats Bill Lang.

Philadelphia, Sept. 5. — Trained to the minute and both confident of victory, its goal most likely a chance to meet Jack Johnson for the championship of the world, Al Kaufman, the California heavyweight, and Bill Lang, of Australia, regarded as the best pugilist his country has turned out since the days of Bob Fitzsimmons, are on edge for their six-round bout at the Philadelphia National League ball park tonight.

Kaufman and Lang, because of their youth and ability as fighters, are both hailed as future champions, and the outcome of the bout is awaited with keen interest.

Delegations from New York and the surrounding cities of Pennsylvania will be on hand to witness the contest. Two interesting preliminary bouts will precede the Kaufman-Lang match. The opening preliminary is scheduled for 8.45 o'clock, while the principals of the big bout are expected to enter the ring at about 9.45 o'clock.

TO PROBE STEAMSHIP TRUST

Olcott Announces Committee Will Meet Early in November.

New York, Sept. 5.—Congressman J. Van Vechten Olcott, chairman of the special committee appointed to investigate the foreign steamship trust and its alleged influence in congress to defeat subsidy legislation, has announced that the committee would convene in this city on or about Nov. 10.—The other members of the committee are Congressmen Longworth, Hawley, Garrett and Humphrey.

"We intend to investigate to the bottom of the repeated charges that the great foreign steamship lines are combined to exact a monopolistic toll on American commerce and that they are even at work in Washington to prevent the re-establishment of the American merchant marine," said Mr. Olcott.

"The powers granted us under the resolution for our appointment are most broad. We are empowered to sit during the sessions of the house or during the recess of congress, to send for persons and papers and to do all other acts necessary to carry out the objects of the inquiry."

Heaviest Baby Girl.

Franklin, Pa., Sept. 5.—A girl weighing fifteen pounds and fourteen ounces was born to Mr. and Mrs. Michael J. McGinty. The weight was made on accurate scales by Dr. H. P. Hammond, of Franklin, who says he believes this a record for girls. The medical records tell of a few boys weighing sixteen pounds, but no girls weighing within three or four pounds of that figure. This is the tenth child in the McGinty family, the others being boys. The father is a laborer.

Liquid Fire Kills Baby Girl.

Altoona, Pa., Sept. 5.—After suffering terribly for several days as the result of drinking concentrated lye, Emily Carson, aged two years, died. While her mother was busy with the housework the child discovered the lye and drank quite a lot of it.

young woman's class said:

"Why don't you sing, Miss Frisbee?"
"Me? Oh, I never sing," replied the teacher, smiling her prettiest.
"But," exclaimed the boy, "the minister says you must. You're just say 'Now, Roddy, sing?'"
Smelling salts and numerous other restoratives had to be used to bring the teacher out of her faint.

They may elect a business agent to act in concert with the executive committee, and the Pomona granges shall be intermediate organizations between the state and subordinate granges.

Sec. 2. This act shall take effect immediately.

Deafness Cannot be Cured

by local application, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a running sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by Catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces. We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars, free.

T. R. COULDN'T RESIST CROWDS

Spoke Fifteen Times From Train on Sunday.

HIS POPULARITY GROWING

Former President Has Passed Through Fourteen States on This Tour and Was Greeted With Enthusiasm Everywhere.

Fargo, N. D., Sept. 5.—Even on Sunday the colonel can't keep quiet. He has tried and failed. He decided that he would make no speeches from the train, but he couldn't resist the crowds that gathered at the stations along the line Sunday, and before nightfall he had spoken at least fifteen times, which is probably as much talking as he has done on any one day in the course of the whole trip.

Mr. Roosevelt preached sermons most of the day. At little towns that bear names like those you see on sleeping cars he faced substantial crowds of folks wearing their black clay suits and white handkerchiefs. The village bands played hymns on their weird sounding brass instruments. Flags were waved.

Mr. Roosevelt spent the night at Fargo and was greeted by an immense crowd at the depot and escorted to a hotel.

Same Enthusiasm.

There was the same enthusiasm, even on Sunday, that Mr. Roosevelt has discovered in the west. The sleeping car towns, such as Cottonwood, Norcross, Priam, Colfax, Willmar and Beeson, were very wide awake. The towns of Minnesota with the front names like Marshall, Joseph, Morris, Russell, Florence, Doran, Sherman and Elizabeth, dumped their entire populations as recorded in the last census down to the station. Some times the train just slowed up so as to give them a glimpse and make the day pleasant for them, but as a rule the train ceased utterly and the colonel spoke.

He discussed mostly moral topics. He told his hearers to be honest, to be courageous, to be good, to be kind and to be patient and true. Politics was tabooed.

It was really not the colonel's fault that he spoke so frequently. How could he help it if the engineer stopped the train and the crowd yelled for him to come out and speak.

In the thirteen days that Mr. Roosevelt has been on the road he has covered more than 3800 miles. He has passed through fourteen states. He has addressed thousands of persons who have shown the friendliest regard for him; regard that stands for votes if he wants them later on. Everywhere he has been observed by those who have watched for it. Taft's name is scarcely mentioned when the colonel is around; and only has Mr. Roosevelt spoken of it and then by referring to the president and not to Mr. Taft.

No one has lost sight of the fact that Mr. Roosevelt has been speaking in the land of the insurgents, where the administration isn't in entire favor. But it is more than a mere political devotion that the west has for the colonel. It is a personal appreciation and liking that seems now as if it might easily be turned into a demand for a third term in the White House.

Is Making a Campaign.

In one sense Mr. Roosevelt is making a campaign. He is setting his views before the public so that they can digest them, if they are able; and on the other hand they must think them over if they don't care to consume them. Wild-eyed Kansas roared with delight at his visit; Nebraska was enthusiastic; South Dakota and Seth Bullock did themselves proud; Iowa and Ohio were more than generous. The news that some New Jersey Republicans have already started a boom for the colonel didn't bother him when it was put to him. He said nothing and didn't look surprised.

At all the western cities where Mr. Roosevelt carries one finds dozens of little and big politicians swarming like bees around him. They seek advice and they seek office. That is what makes it look as though the colonel is being taken mightily seriously as a candidate in 1912. Some of the wise ones who have tried to draw him out on the matter of his break with the president have failed utterly to get satisfactory answers.

The last leg of the trip is at hand. Visits to St. Paul, Milwaukee, Chicago, Cincinnati and Pittsburgh will be of deep importance. When the colonel reaches the home of Mr. Taft he will be watched closely in the hope that he will commit himself; those who are with him believe that he will steer clear of politics with studied innocence.

Noted Financier Suddenly Stricken With Pneumonia at Lexington, Ky.
Lexington, Ky., Sept. 5.—James R. Keene, the noted New York financier and horseman, was taken seriously ill with pneumonia here at the Phoenix hotel.

Physicians were summoned, and his brother-in-law, Major F. A. Dalgner, hurried over to the scene in an automobile from his country estate at Casteleton, near Lexington.

Mr. Keene arrived here from New York, accompanied only by his valet. After an examination the physicians announced Mr. Keene's condition to be serious. His relatives in the east have been telegraphed and are hurrying to his bedside.

NEW WARSHIPS TO BE TERROR OF SEAS

Craft is Designed to Destroy Dreadnoughts.

Berlin, Sept. 5.—Further particulars of the new motor warship, the building of which was published in the Vorwarts, says:

All ideas of airships and aeroplanes dropping bombs and destroying warships are eliminated by the invention of the small type of comparatively inexpensive and enormously powerful motor-driven monitor which will scorch the Dreadnoughts shortly.

England and Germany are working feverishly on the construction of these vessels, which only rise fifty-four inches out of the water.

They are 280 feet long and have only two seventeen-inch guns in the central barbettes, turnable by hydraulic machinery, firing at hitherto unprecedented speed, the shell weighing 5500 pounds. There are four eight-cylinder explosion motors, each separately served, driving separate screws.

The maximum speed is twenty-seven knots, the deck curve is armored and unperforable. This entirely new type of vessel can destroy Dreadnoughts, and is almost unhittable. England began the construction of the new vessels, with Germany closely following. The new vessels will be lightly armed and very speedy.

In general design they will be similar to the old monitor. Their length will be 280 feet, breadth 46 feet and draught 19.23 feet, while the hull will extend 54 inches above the water line.

ODDLY DROWNS HIMSELF

Lying Drunk, Body Dams Water From Steam Jet Until Engulfed.

Edwardsville, Ill., Sept. 5.—Lying in a drunken stupor last night after he had been earnestly celebrating his release from a thirty-five day jail term, J. A. Riffner, fifty years old, formed a human dam for a baby stream of water that trickled over the stones from a steam jet in a factory yard.

He lay there all night, while the water mounted higher and higher. Finally it reached his mouth and he was drowned. He was found dead in the morning, with the water trickling over his body.

Confesses to Gold Theft.

Telluride, Colo., Sept. 5.—William Irwin, amalgamator at the Libbey Bell mine, was arrested on the charge of stealing gold, the property of the mine. He confessed to the police that he had stolen $10,820 worth of gold in the last year. A home of a young woman on whom he had been calling officers found $2331 worth of gold he had given her. He represented to her she said that it was his and that he wanted her to keep it for him.

Cow Pumps Water.

Marquette, Wis., Sept. 5.—Lars Grace, of this city, owns a cow which will pump the trough on the family lot full of water when she wants a drink. Mr. Grace states that the cow first ascertains that the trough is dry, then manipulates the pump handle with her horns until she has enough water, after which she drinks her fill.

MURDERERS DROP LOOT TO ESCAPE

Slayers of Paymaster and Guard Got Away Penniless.

POLICE ON THEIR TRAIL

Torn Letter and Envelope Important Clue to Brutal Crime at Hudson, N. Y.—Suspicion Points to Employees.

Hudson, N. Y., Sept. 5.—The bandits who murdered young Denton Fowler, assistant treasurer of the Atlas Building Material company, and his negro driver, George Ragsdale, fled through the woods in such haste that they dropped the treasurer's suitcase containing $5600 in gold, silver and bills.

Police Chief James J. Lane and Superintendent Jerry Leonard, of the Atlas brickyard, stumbled upon the cash bag while they were beating up the thickets with a party of armed men.

Lane and Leonard found not only the money that Dent Fowler had been hurrying with to the Atlas brickyard, but within a few steps of where Mr. Fowler and the plucky negro had been shot to death they came upon the weapons the robbers had used in the killing, a Winchester repeating rifle, a shotgun and two revolvers. Searching on their hands and knees through the wet brush, they found two caps, such as Italian laborers commonly wear in this part of the country; two red bandanna handkerchiefs which had been pierced with eyeholes and used for masks; the scattered fragments of an envelope and the torn envelope had contained, and the scrap strewn spot, a tiny clearing surrounded by almost impenetrable thickets of thornbush where the robbers had made camp while they waited for young Fowler's buggy.

Fowler and his negro driver were shot dead and robbed by masked men while on their way to pay off the men.

Guns, Caps and Masks Found.
The discovery of the suitcase with the pay envelopes unopened, untouched even; the rifle, shotgun and revolvers, the caps and masks and the torn envelope and letter, and the clear sign of the trail that led to the brick yard almost led the story in themselves of the incidents that preceded and followed the killing and the looting of the buggy.

They indicate that employees of the Atlas company, Italians, almost certainly men who were entitled by their work to a moiety of the cash young Fowler was conveying, men who knew every step the paymaster had taken, ambushed him and then, unable to escape with the heavy money case and in danger of being caught by the brickmakers, who were pouring down the road to the woods, dropped the case and made, two of them at least, a long detour back to the brickyard. These, the people think, had the audacity to run in behind the disappearing brickmakers and join in the hunt. The second trail, the footprints going south, show that the party had split in sudden alarm, and that three, perhaps four, had dashed through the woods in an opposite direction.

Of all the things that the frightened robbers had discarded, the torn letter and envelope most interested the police. The letter was addressed to an Italian living in Hudson. It was worded in Italian. But envelope and contents had been torn across again and again and flung in small fragments over twenty yards of ground. It was a long and tedious job to piece these papers together, but the reconstructed envelope gave the name and address of a man. The several sheets of the letter was a tougher problem.

CRIPPEN IS BETTER

Man Accused of Elmore Murder Recovers Spirits.

London, Sept. 5.—Dr. Crippen, who is soon to be tried in the Bow street court for the murder of Belle Elmore, has somewhat recovered his spirits since his recent collapse.

Several interviews with his lawyer have served to put him in a more optimistic frame of mind.

Miss Ethel Leneve, who is jointly accused, continues to show her usual composure.

The case has attracted more attention here than any in several years.

Motorless Biplane Dashes to Earth.

Baltimore, Md., Sept. 5.—Soaring high over the heads of a crowd that had gathered at Prospect park, William W. Southard lost control of his motorless biplane, and with a swoop it descended to the ground, tossing the daring aviator head foremost before it. That he wasn't killed or seriously injured was regarded as remarkably by those who witnessed the lightning-like dart earthward by the refractory machine. The biplane had reached an elevation of thirty or more feet and had covered a distance of a quarter of a mile when it turned its nose downward and hurled its inventor to the earth.

Dogs Set House on Fire.

Bridgeton, N. J., Sept. 5.—The home of Charles Pierce, on Cherry street, was destroyed by fire while Mrs. Pierce was down town shopping. It is supposed that the flames were started by her two dogs, which were left to guard the home, with the lamp burning on the center table.

Founder of the Grange.

A personal letter to the editor of this department from O. H. Kelley, founder of the Order of Patrons of Husbandry, conveys the intelligence that his health is fairly good, although he is well advanced in years. He is always glad to hear from his grange friends, and it would be a pleasing courtesy for them to write him telling of the work the grange is doing in their community. His address is 2014 Kalorama road, Washington, D. C.

Her Pirate Lover

By ARTHUR L. SANDS

Copyright, 1910, by American Press Association.

Molly Van Dusen and I plighted our troth one evening under the parapet of the battery in the town of New Amsterdam. We were looking down the bay, and a ship, the first that had arrived in several weeks, was coming up under full sail. It was summer. All these things I remember well, for it was the happiest moment of my life, and whatever was visible to my dear love and me was deeply impressed upon my mind.

That was a very hot season, and Molly was drooping from the heat. The very next day after she had promised to be my wife her father determined to send her to the eastern coast in Connecticut to spend some time with her mother's brother, Pardon Mathews, hoping that the sea air would strengthen her. I was loath to let her go at such a time and especially since the captain of the ship that came in at the time of our betrothal reported having been chased by a pirate, and it was well known that the buccaners were at any time liable to make a descent on the coast.

But Molly's father packed her off in the coach leaving for Boston, directing that she be put off at a bit of headland jutting out into Long Island sound not far from the settlement at New Haven.

It was a sad day for both of us when she got into the coach and I watched it pass out of sight among the boweries lying to the eastward of the town. And even after the coach had grown so dim with distance as scarcely to be discovered I could see Molly's white handkerchief streaming a signal of her love for me.

I found the town unbearable without her. I played at bowls in the green near the battery and sailed in my boat on Hudson's river, but I could not get on without my Molly, so I determined to go to her. I mounted my sorrel one August morning, with my saddlebags well filled with eatables, and on the third day reached the New Haven settlement. After partaking of a dinner and giving my horse a good feed I remounted and in three hours' time came in sight of that headland where dwelt Pardon Mathews. There are rocks and short beaches on this shore and an occasional knoll covered with long grass. An Indian showed me Mr. Mathews' house set on one of these knolls. I trotted on where the road ran near the water and presently, looking ahead, saw two persons standing on a rock that protruded out a few feet above the surface of the sound.

As I drew nearer I could see that one of these persons was a man and the other a woman. The man was in an uncouth dress. What was my surprise when I came near enough to distinguish his apparel to see that he wore a hat with a large brim, a short coat and trousers to his knees, flaring at the bottom of the legs, while a broad belt filled with knives was buckled about his waist.

At once I was filled with alarm, feeling sure that there had been a descent of pirates on the settlers and this fellow had carried off one of the women. Having a pistol in my holster, I drew it forth, saw to the priming and made ready for an attempt to rescue this poor woman. Dismounting, I left my horse in a thicket and, stealing up on the couple, hid behind a rock and, taking sure aim at the pirate, pulled the trigger.

The flint refused to light the priming, and luckily, for at the moment the pirate put his arm around the woman's waist, and the two stood looking at the incoming tide. Were she a willing captive it would only distress her if I killed her lover. But what was my horror when she turned her face my way to see my Molly.

At first I was minded to kill them both; but, shrinking from having Molly's blood on my hands, I desisted and advanced with my pistol in hand. "Have you gone mad, Mistress Van Dusen," I exclaimed, "that you will accept the caresses of a pirate, or has he murdered all your folk and you are making a pretense in order to watch your opportunity to get away from him?"

As I spoke I held the pirate under cover of my weapon, and he, turning, ran like a deer toward Mr. Mathews' house.

"See the coward run!" I cried, half minded to shoot him in his tracks.

And then what did Molly do but burst into loud laughter, and, sitting down on the rock, she kept it up till I grew hot with choler and said: "For shame, Molly, to turn from me to a pirate, and a coward at that! Speak before I kill him."

This brought her to her senses. "Forbear," she said. "Do not kill a girl."

"A girl! And have the women turned buccaners?"

With that she fell to laughing again, and I could get nothing from her for a long while, while she controlled her mirth and said:

"Tonight uncle gives a dance to the settlers roundabout, and all are to come dressed in some strange costume. This pirate who has just closed the door of the house is my cousin, Pardon Mathews. She is dressed in her costume for the dance. We two came out to watch for the boat bearing guests from New Haven."

"Heavens!" I exclaimed. "Had not my flint failed I would have shot her."

Farmers and Autos.

Mr. J. George Frederick, editor of Printers' Ink, says: "Out of 10,000 autos in Iowa, about 500 are owned by farmers. Kansas farmers spent $3,200,000 for automobiles during 1909 and $2,750,000 in 1908. In one Nebraska town of 800 population forty autos were sold last year to farmers and retired farmers in the town. A careful estimate of the number of automobiles owned by farmers in the United States is 70,000."

IT WAS LOVELY,
BUT NOT SAFE

By ELIZABETH GAINES

Copyright, 1910, by American Press Association.

"I have but one objection to you, Bert," said Celia—"you're altogether too serious. When your face is at rest you have a very harsh look. Your smile is delightful. Unfortunately you never smile."

"Have you any more compliments like that?" asked Bert. "For if you have you'd better dismiss me altogether."

Bert Cummings left his fiancée very much disgruntled. He unbosomed himself to his friend Arnold Priestley, who sat thinking while Bert talked. Finally Priestley said:

"I would advise you to try hypnotism. I know a man who can make people laugh or weep or anything else he likes. He doesn't put them to sleep, either. I shouldn't be surprised if he could make you smile. I'll take you to see him."

Cummings assented, and they went to see the hypnotist, Smithers. Smithers said he could make the young man smile, but as soon as the hypnotic effect was removed he would become serious again.

Bert said he believed he'd try it. He was to go to see Celia Ethingham that evening and he would like to give her for once all the smiles she required.

At half past 8 that evening Miss Ethingham heard the doorbell ring and flew to admit her lover. There was Bert with a beautiful smile on his face. Celia was right about Bert's smile. It was entrancing. There was a delightful curl to his lips, a dimple in each cheek, and his regular white teeth showed beneath his dark mustache.

"Oh, Bert," said Celia, clasping his hands, "how handsome you are when you smile! Keep it up!"

"I'll try. Ha, ha!" Bert responded.

"Because Helen and Molly and Lou are all coming in tonight to meet you. If you will keep up that smile all the evening they'll be delighted with you. You know how anxious I am that these my dearest friends should be pleased with you."

"I'll be cordial. Ha, ha, ha!"

There was another ring at the bell, and the girls were admitted.

"This," said Celia, "is Mr. Albert Cummings, Miss Helen Ward."

A bow and a ha-ha!

"And Miss Molly Malloy."

A bow and a ha-ha-ha!

"And Miss Louise Truesdale."

A bow and a ha-ha-ha-ha!

Albert's smile was contagious. His fiancée caught it, and it extended to the three other girls.

"Helen," said Celia, "you are my oldest friend. I propose that Bert shall sit by you first while we three have a bit of gossip by ourselves. Then I'll turn him over to Molly and then to Lou."

So down sat Mr. Cummings and Miss Ward to get acquainted.

"I'm very glad to meet you," says the lady. "Celia and I are such very old friends that one who is to be so much to her must be much to me."

Bert smiled that heavenly smile of his, and Miss Ward was beside herself. Never before had a man smiled at her like that. Every time she made a remark Bert smiled, or, rather, his lips wore a perpetual smile which was intensified at every remark. He made no other reply. Whether his hypnotic condition admitted of his receiving what was said to him and making a reply is a question. Probably his keeping his mouth shut was an advantage to him.

It was not very long before Celia concluded to change the girl with whom her lover was getting acquainted. Celia had observed Helen's gaze fixed on Bert's beautiful smile and thought it time to break the spell. So Molly was substituted.

"I'm so glad for dear Celia," said Molly.

"Ha, ha!"

"I consider her happiness the same as my own."

"Ha, ha, ha!"

In the beginning of a conversation Bert's smile was more of a laugh. After that it slimmered down into a mere curvature of the lips. But the dimples were there and the pearly teeth under the mustache. The effect on Molly was the same as on Helen, only more so. Celia, seeing that Molly couldn't very long keep her hands off Bert, made the third change, putting Lou in Molly's place.

"I don't blame you for not being able to conceal your happiness," said Lou.

"Ha, ha!"

"It's delightful to be engaged, isn't it?"

"Ha, ha, ha!"

"One feels like smiling all the while."

"Ha, ha, ha, ha!"

"Let's have the conversation general," said Celia, moving her chair toward Bert and Lou. "Draw up, girls." Celia tried to talk to one or two of the girls, while the other conversed with Bert. But it was no use. Every girl's attention was fixed on that beautiful smile. Celia rose, with great hauteur, and walked into the hall, motioning Bert to follow her.

"Go home," she said, "and get that idiotic grin off your face!" Bert went to Smithers, who dehypnotized him. When Bert saw his fiancée again he had his hard look on his face. "I don't like it so well," said Celia, "but it's safer—much safer."

THE DAIRY TYPE OF COW.

Points Which Indicate a Capacity For Milk Production.

The points that a cow should possess if adapted to economical milk production are quite the opposite from what is seen in the beef animal, says Professor W. B. Richards.

The dairy cow possesses a long face, thin, slender neck and a sharp projecting shoulder. She is not very wide in the chest, but her capacity of chest is due to her depth, which is greater in proportion to her size than you will find in the beef animal. She possesses a large barrel, which indicates a good capacity for digesting her food. Her depth here should exceed her depth in any other portion of the body. A dairy cow should have a good width at the hips. Her thighs should be lean and free from muscling. She should be open between her thighs.

Much attention should be given the udder of the dairy cow. A large udder does not indicate that it is a good one. Udders are often very fleshy. A good udder should be elastic and pliable and show many folds when milked out. The teats should be placed equal distances apart, which is generally the case if the udder is quite symmetrical and well proportioned. Large milk veins are good indications. The more winding and branching they are the better the indication. The veins do not carry milk, as many think, but carry the blood from the udder to the body, and the more blood that passes through the udder the more milk there is produced, because the milk is produced from the blood.

KOL QUEEN LA POLKA II.

(From Orange Judd Farmer.)

A good dairy cow possesses a rather thin, pliable, elastic skin. A coarse, harsh handling skin is a poor indication. When cows possess these qualities of skin they are rarely good producers.

The Holstein cow Kol Queen La Polka II., owned by Clayton Sisson of New York, recently established a new thirty day record for both butter and milk. This cow produced 124 pounds of milk in one day, 841.8 pounds in seven days and 3,763.3 pounds in thirty days. Her seven day butter test is 25.38 pounds and thirty days 145.6. Her picture, shown herewith, will indicate the remarkable productive power she possesses.

A BOON TO ANY STATE.

Money Value of a Hard Wagon Road to the Farmer.

The reduction of a cent or two in railroad rates or a similar increase is of far less importance to the farmer than the condition of the wagon road on which he hauls his produce to the railroad. If he must waste a day going and coming, if he must haul a small load for fear of getting stuck en route, if sometimes he cannot get through the road at all, even though the market price of his product be at that time unusually high, what does a slightly lower or higher rate on the railroad profit or harm him?

On the other hand, a hard, level road is his good servant. He can make the trip thereon quickly at almost any season of the year. He can haul a large load and so have to make the trip less frequently. A good road means, therefore, a practical reduction in the cost of getting his products to market. It means more money for every bushel of wheat or potatoes or other crop. It means a lower cost for all the supplies he buys in town.—Minneapolis Journal.

Why They Fail

Most Pile Remedies Miss The Cause Of Piles.

Disagreeable treatment, with ointments or suppositories usually fails to cure piles and cutting them off won't remove the cause. Such treatment only moderates the outside effects of the disease and fails to remedy the inside cause. The up-to-date doctors now use internal medicine, to free the circulation in the lower bowel, and so remove the disease.

Dr. Leonhardt's Hem-Roid, the first and only guaranteed internal pile cure—in the form of tablets—cures any kind of piles. Sold by People's Drug Store, Gettysburg, Pa. $1 for large box. Dr. Leonhardt Co., Station B, Buffalo, N. Y.
